

SCHENNA
RESORT
SOURCE OF LIGHT

Places of bliss.

A woman with long brown hair, wearing a bright green button-down shirt and dark shorts, is sitting cross-legged on a grey hot tub deck. She is smiling and looking towards the right. The background features a wooden railing, a lush green field, and distant mountains under a soft, hazy sky. The lighting suggests late afternoon or early morning.

TIME FOR RELAXATION HAS BECOME PRECIOUS...
SO TAKE TIME FOR YOURSELF AND YOUR LOVED ONES.

THE FIRST STEP IS A VISION.

In the 1960s, today's senior managers Alois and Rosa Pföstl laid the foundations for today's Schenna Resort, with vision, courage, and willpower. What started out as a small Bed & Breakfast grew continuously, until, by the 1980s, it had turned into a "proper" hotel with 40 beds and a staff of six. The Pföstl daughters were responsible for the service and helped with the extension. Over the years, the hotel continued to grow, and more and more guests arrived. The first "boom" came in the 1970s, when a pool was added. Most of the guests at that time came from Germany, who came to spend their summer holiday with the Pföstl family. After 2000, the number of beds also increased. Even while running the hotel, Alois always remained true to his passion for painting and decorating. There is almost no house in Schenna that Alois hasn't painted at some point or another, and he kept his painting business going right up to his retirement.

Many things have changed since the early days: The Schenna Resort has moved with the time. Alois and Rosa like this development. In particular the many palm trees that have been added around the resort with their approval. Ever since their retirement, the couple spends two months every summer up on the mountain pasture where they are completely self-sufficient, without electricity or phones. If absolutely necessary, they will charge their mobile phones in the car so the family can get hold of them. Solar lights were recently installed on the pasture, making life a little easier. The two of them drive to the butcher's, shop, cook, chop wood and enjoy the peace and quiet with the daily paper. A deep sense of contentment is written all over their faces. "The children are doing a good job", says Alois. Rosa nods in agreement and strokes his cheek.

DEAR GUESTS AND FRIENDS,

We have our freedom back, any remaining restrictions have become bearable or simply part of our normal routine. What has remained from the last two years? Was it the realisation that there are more important things in life than running after the latest gadget? Or was it the discovery of just how precious a holiday these days is? Quite honestly, we believe that it was more than that.

Relaxing, consciously making space for serenity, giving the people in our life more attention – those were the things that we took away from the Covid years, and we heard the same from many of our guests. Recharging your batteries in the stunning natural setting of Merano is simply bliss. The same applies to letting the afternoon drain away in the vineyard sauna or using the outdoor fitness lounge in the adults-only Mitterplatt.

These are just two of the many options open to you. Read on to find out what is going on for you next year! In addition, we would like to share a few insights into the heart of our family with you. After all, you as our guest are our only true benchmark! Together with our team, we want to treat you to some unforgettable days here in our resort. Moments filled with laughter, heart-warming encounters, culinary highlights and simply pure relaxation. Our resort offers all that and more. All you need to do is accept our offer and start relaxing – the rest will happen automatically.

Here's to an amazing holiday at the Schenna Resort!

*Yours sincerely,
the Pföstl & Wörndle family*

AT THE END OF THE DAY, IT IS ALL ABOUT THE SOUL

Priska Pföstl, head of the SPA at the Schenna Resort, is a fountain of calmness and stability. Her responsibilities include mindfulness training as well as a wide range of treatments and workshops that help guests live in the here and now, both physically and mentally. Priska, herself a systemic coach, puts it this way: "Material possessions and superficialness are giving way to people's deep-seated desire to find themselves, to understand life a bit better." Guests are looking for more than classic beauty treatments and sauna sessions. Our fast-paced everyday routines and the constant need to perform have made it all the more important to listen to our inner voice.

Priska and her team have taken it upon themselves to help guests listen to this inner voice. Massage experts know after just a couple of minutes where the aches and pains are, and with their wonderful hands, they soothe not just the muscles, but also the souls of their customers. The Schenna Resort has a daily free offer of meditation workshops and yoga sessions with professional yoga instructors. The famous herbal stamp massage and the Beauty4me facial are Priska's personal favourites. Individually tailored to the guest exclusive well-being happens here. Priska wants the Schenna Resort to be a source of strength for its guests – a place where they feel that their energy levels are being recharged. The yearning for a personal touch was particularly noticeable after the first and second Covid waves. People are now desperate to treat themselves, says Priska.

INDIVIDUAL COACHINGS & SEMINARS FOR HAPPINESS IN LIFE

“SELFNESS” MEANS:
TAKING A BREAK, LISTENING TO YOURSELF.

APPRECIATION IN LINE WITH THE TIMES

A string of coincidences and a large family brought Stefan and his sister Heidi to the forefront of the Schenna Resort management. Their father Alois had planned for Stefan to also gain a foothold in his painting and decorating business. Stefan was a hard-working assistant to his father, but soon realised that he missed working with people. For this reason he began to help out around the hotel instead, and found out that he liked that work. Until today, he has remained loyal to the Schenna Resort. His passion for tourism is palpable. He loves the fact that his work is so multi-faceted and that there is never just a single task to complete. For Stefan, variety really is the spice of life. The Pförtl siblings are a tried-and-tested team: Every two weeks, they meet to work out new plans and ideas for the Schenna Resort. Each of the siblings has different strengths. Heidi is great at marketing and admin, while Stefan is a born organiser and takes care of things around the house, from renovation works to the coordination of service activities. Stefan is always open to new things. One of the other three Pförtl sisters, Elisabeth, runs a butcher shop in Schenna together with her husband, specialising in deli products and smoked goods. Stefan's great passion since he was a young man, is wine. Already in 1999, he created his first vintage together with a friend. At the Schenna Resort, Stefan has built up the Pförtl winery together with his old friend Georg Weger, cellar master and winemaker. Instead of apple trees, vines were planted and grapes harvested. Today, the Pförtl family leases 7 hectares of cultivable land and also purchases some grapes from local vintners. By now, 70% percent of the Pförtl wine is served to guests and marketed in-house. Stefan's life's work is definitely the Schenna Resort. For the future, Stefan has this specific wish: "I want our guests to feel truly welcome. This sense of warmth is very important to me. We also want to demonstrate our appreciation of our staff and guests - we are all part of one big family. To me, these are the foundations of our success. Of course, you have to go with the times also in terms of design and optics. I believe that guests appreciate that, too."

Winemaker Stefan Pförtl, cellar master and winemaker Georg Weger

SETTING THE BAR HIGH IS OUR GREATEST PLEASURE.

Professional experience is crucial – Gernot is sure of that. The restaurant manager at the Schenna Resort may not share the Pföstl name, but he is just as much part of the family. Gernot sets great store by a personal touch and knows every guest by name. He has also developed a table planning system that allows him to see where guests were seated the year before. When they come back, he will try his best to seat them again in the same place. That's the sort of personal note that never fails to make an impression. When guests come up to him after dinner and thank him for a great evening, Gernot knows that he has done a good job - and that makes him happy. According to Gernot, some people have a genetic disposition for this line of work. At the moment, jobs in restaurants are getting a lot of bad press, that is why Gernot considers it important to show young employees just how much pleasure this work gives. His main goal is to make sure that his trainees enjoy their work. With the outstanding Schenna Resort cuisine, success is pretty much guaranteed. Every week, he meets with Kitchen Chef Stephan Egger, who has been working in the hotel for 20 years, to discuss and plan the week ahead. Gernot says: "Never have I seen a hotel where the presentation on the plate is as precise and creative." Hats off to the kitchen team! At the Schenna Resort, main courses are served under a cloche for decades. This tradition aims not just at a certain show effect when the food is revealed, but also at keeping it hot until it arrives at the guest's table. After all, many of the dishes have to travel a few metres from the kitchen to the table. It would be a shame if this special touch was lost. And there is no doubt that the perfectly coordinated kitchen and service team is a big factor in the success of the Schenna Resort.

NATURE IS OUR ENERGY SOURCE.

Waking up feeling refreshed and cheerful - for Heidi, the oldest of the Pfössl siblings, and her husband Hubert, that is what being active is all about. The two nature enthusiasts appreciate nothing more than an active holiday. One pleasant observation for Heidi is, that despite the extensive range of wellness facilities on offer, guests at the Schenna Resort tend to instinctively venture forth from the hotel to explore this fantastic natural setting. The secret, she believes, lies in the magical effect of this mountain world, be it spring, summer, autumn or winter. Nowhere else does slowing down come as easy as in the mountains, which create a balance to the stressful everyday routine. This is exactly what guests are looking for. Experience has shown that guests begin to truly unwind after a walk in the outdoors, in the fresh air - only then have they really arrived, says Heidi. The couple goes hiking together once a week, a shared pleasure that will never become routine. For Heidi, her guided hikes for guests are a matter of the heart, and an opportunity to share her enthusiasm for this natural setting with her guests. Mindfulness training, for instance by consciously experiencing the breeze and the range of colours, happens naturally while out and about in the great outdoors. Once a year, the Schenna Resort organises a hiking week, where Heidi goes on tours with the guests on five consecutive days. Hubert and Heidi firmly believe that hosts have to know their home region inside out to help guests get the most out of it. This region harbours lots of fascinating stories, says Hubert, who today runs the Hotel Mitterplatt with a personal touch that guests really appreciate. "One of the strengths of the family is the fact that they are unobtrusive. That's what makes them so likeable", is what the Schenna Resort guests say about the owners. Hubert, Heidi and all the others are pleased to hear it - that's exactly how they would like things to be. Over the last few years, there was constant renovation work going on in the Schenna Resort. The Covid years did not result in a hiatus but rather gave rise to new ideas. Hubert and Heidi see the family's strong bond as an integral part of the future of their resort. "Guests sense that the family is close. We still build on traditional values that are probably not found all that often in modern-day families." In the Schenna Resort, contrived coolness is not to be found - instead, there is a feeling of almost Zen-like calm and peace.

FOCUSED ON THE BIGGER PICTURE

Peter Wörndle, head of reception, puts heart and soul into his work. However, it wasn't always obvious that he would stay in the family business. He started out with service and kitchen responsibilities before advancing to reception, which has remained his sphere of action until today. From a young age, Peter was allowed to help out around his parents' hotel with his siblings Florian and Georg. Heidi's and Hubert's highly motivated son Peter attended tourism school and worked in several businesses in South Tyrol and further afield before returning to his place of origin and working his way up to head of reception. For Peter, the reception is the place where guests arrive and where they should feel welcome. "The most important thing when guests arrive is to take the stress off them, to make them feel that their holiday has truly begun", he says. Peter loves the variety of his work: Every day is a school day, every day he learns something new. After 5.5 days on the job, filled with phone calls, room allocations and other managerial duties, Peter, a passionate athlete, likes to play football in weekly training sessions or goes on bike tours, often pushing himself to the limits of physical endurance. He has always enjoyed cycling through the forest on his own and exploring the nearby valleys. Today, his passion for cycling also benefits the hotel guests, as his e-bike tours have become part of the resort's activity programme. Peter loves the proximity to the guests and expects them to adhere to certain standards. Safety comes first - a principle that makes joint tours all the more successful. Peter is a sports fan through and through and especially loves football. Since his childhood "his" favourite team is Juventus Turin. Once a year, Peter can be found in a crowded stadium, cheering on the team with friends. These moments, when he breathes "Juve air", are important to him and something he looks forward to. For Peter, the future of the Schenna Resort is clear: "My priority is functionality. We need to take the wishes of our guests into account to help everyone find the room that is right for them." Peter is happy with the way things are going at reception and is open to making a different area of the resort his home at some point. More and more, he gets a taste of the business management side of things from his uncle Stefan, and is fascinated by the many factors that need to be juggled to keep the bigger picture in check.

SIMPLE ONLY FEEL FINE.

Entering a room where everything is clean and in order has an immediate relaxing effect. Ever since the Schenna Resort was refurbished on a large-scale in 2016, Stefan's partner Michaela and her housekeeping team, consisting of 15 maids and one gouverness, have been in charge of all the work done behind the scenes. For the housekeeping team, work typically starts at 7am. By 8:30am, the outdoor areas, dining rooms and toilets of the Resort have been cleaned, and the team moves on to the guests' rooms around 9am. For Michaela, it is crucial that guests see that their rooms were lovingly put in order and that they give off a welcoming vibe: "The difference is in the details. Guests will always find a chocolate or an apple next to their beds, the room will always smell of freshly laundered sheets. To me, those little touches are important. Our maids have free reign when it comes to little things such as sculpting shapes out of towels and putting their own personal touch on things." Sustainability is also a key principle of housekeeping at the Schenna Resort. Cleaning products are purchased from a company with certified credentials, and aggressive ingredients are only used for the basic cleaning of toilets and bathrooms. As a hotel guest, Michaela used to be a lot more demanding than she is now: "When staying in hotels, I used to check under the mattress to see if everything was just so. I don't do that anymore! A holiday is a holiday." What she can't do without, however, are high-quality sheets, beds, and mattresses. Guests at the Schenna may also ask for harder or softer pillows or an additional mattress topper to get the best possible night's sleep. Cleanliness and simplicity - these are the two things that Michaela and her housekeeping team want to give their guests.

A GOLFER'S PARADISE

A game of golf between the Karer pass and the South Tyrolean wine route is not only visually stunning, but also varied and exciting, due to the differences in elevation. We are a partner enterprise of "Golf in Südtirol": With the Golf-Card Südtirol, you will receive a 20% discount on the green fee payable in the club of your choice. Please note that the green fee only applies to 18-hole courses and that you may only use the discount four times.
